- Recent advances in research allow us to now detect the early stages of Alzheimer's disease with an investigational blood test.
- Early intervention during this stage may prevent or prolong the time until symptoms start.
- Find out if you have Alzheimer's even before you start to have symptoms.

The TRAILBLAZER-ALZ 3 study is a new research study sponsored by Eli Lilly and Company which may help researchers to potentially prevent or slow down the symptoms of Alzheimer's disease.
